Description

Under Armor women's bra. The compression bra is a combination of a modern sporty look and great functional properties. The advantage of the sports bra is the HeatGear material, which is pleasant to the touch and provides excellent sweat drainage. Thanks to the refined cut, it is a guarantee of excellent air circulation. The training bra has cups that are removable and hold their shape very well. You can also use it for sports activities with light intensity.

The training bra has a thin elastic bottom band that adapts nicely to you. The straps are decorated with the inscription Under Armour. Anti-odor technology prevents the formation of odor-producing bacteria. The women's training bra uses 4-Way Stretch technology, so it will provide you with a high degree of mobility. The branded bra is intended for various exercises, sports and leisure activities.
