Description

Adidas men's shoes. Men's hiking boots have a low cut. They stand out not only with their trendy orange color, but also with their functional properties. If you want to look stylish even on the mountains, but at the same time have comfort and convenience, choose these low hiking shoes. The durable upper will provide the necessary breathability and stability, while the rubber sole will ensure cushioning and shock absorption. Another advantage is the Gore-tex membrane, thanks to which your feet will always be dry.

adidas Terrex trekking shoes have laces that can be easily adjusted individually. The waterproof upper is reinforced around the entire perimeter of the shoe. This gives you additional stability and protection. Men's mountain shoes have a midsole made of light EVA material, which provides gentle cushioning. The molded insole and padded collar will provide comfort on any surface even during longer wear. Men's outdoor shoes were also made from recycled materials.
