Description

Men's adidas shoes. Adidas Terrex is one of the popular shoes for hiking and leisure. These men's trekking shoes are universal and, thanks to their color combination, also easy to combine. The gray upper is complemented by orange details. The hiking boots have a durable but breathable upper made of ripstop material, which is reinforced with additional material in the most stressed parts, such as the toe and heel. Men's trekking shoes are made part of recycled material.

Men's outdoor shoes have a highly adhesive Traxion sole, which has protrusions at the end. With the help of Pro-Moderator technology, which increases stability, trekking boots will allow you to quickly climb hiking trails, rocky sections or even rock climbs. Trekking shoes are of light construction. The comfort of the shoes in the woods is enhanced by the molded insole inside and the padded collar on the shoe. Lace-up allows you to adapt the shoes to the mountains according to individual needs.
