Description

Everett men's shoes. Low hiking boots are suitable for summer or autumn hiking. Thanks to the TexDryve membrane, even rain will not surprise you, because the membrane ensures their waterproofness. The durable suede upper is also breathable, so your comfort during the hike is taken care of. The toe and heel of the hiking boots are reinforced with additional material for better stability and protection. The Everett FixBase system, which fixes the ankle and gives it support, also contributes to the stability of the mountain shoes.

Low hiking shoes have classic lacing, which is supplemented with hooks. The padded shoe collar and comfortable insole ensure comfort during wear. Footarch Support technology helps with proper arch and arch. Men's trekking shoes have a durable rubber sole, the front part of which goes all the way to the toe. The sole is suitable for uneven terrain and will provide good grip and traction during the hike. These men's hiking boots will gladly become your favorite companion during outdoor adventures.
